Our regular visits and discussions with the selected communities for Beyond Bushfires are really helping us to make the research as relevant and useful as possible. A strong message from these visits is how important it is to learn about what helps communities over time. We will do our best to keep connecting with you in different ways.

The pilot study is now complete and we are ready to begin surveys in the remaining communities.

To make the results of this study as useful as possible for your community we need as many current and past residents (2009 onwards) as possible to participate.

We would love everyone from the above communities – adults, adolescents and children - to become involved!

We will send letters about the study (in April and May) to people on the electoral roll but we also need your help locally, so that others in the community see the input you have had and the local relevance. Please help us by spreading the word – and contact us if you are willing to put up a flyer about the project in your local community.

Everyone's experience is different and we want to hear what everyone has to say.
